Office re-opens

The newly renovated Social Security office on Michigan Avenue in Inkster re-opened Dec. 23.

The improvements will help the office to provide better service to the Western Wayne communities, according to Frances Heimes-Savickis, field representative.

Designate a driver

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano asks party-goers to designate a driver.

"Use common sense and designate a driver who will stay sober and get you home in one piece," Ficano said, noting that the state's tough drunk driving laws are another reason to designate a driver.

Armed robbery pair nabbed by SIU squad

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Two armed robbery suspects from Taylor were nabbed last weekend after police say one of them robbed a pair of employees of the Big Lot Department store of Taylor over more than $5,000 in cash.

Detective Lt. David Early, head of the investigative unit of the Romulus Police Department, said the defendants, Jeri Lynn Barlett, 21, a Big Lots employee, and her roommate James Will Sills, 28, were charged with armed robbery and were arraigned last Saturday before Judge James Kandrevas. Bail was set at $100,000 (10 percent) with a preliminary exam set for Jan. 2 at the 34th District of Romulus.

Early said that Sills is charged with robbing the two Big Lot Department store employees at knifepoint as they were preparing to make a deposit at the NBD Bank on Middlebelt road in Romulus on Dec. 15.

Sills reportedly fled with the two deposit bags containing over $5,000.

Early said police gained information that led to the issuing of a search warrant for the Bartlett-Sills home and the recovery of a four-inch folding knife, clothing worn by the bandit and receipts and other evidence accounting for about $4,000 of the stolen funds.

Early also released the following police reports:

- A Miriam street resident reported a burglar broke into the family's garage and stole assorted Craftsman and other tools. An attempt also was made to break into the home, but that was unsuccessful, police said.

- Two 1,000 rolls of 12-2 wire romex were reported stolen from a locked storage container at a Van Born construction site.

- Police were told that a set of keys was reported stolen from a table in the Romulus

High School library. Later it was discovered that the owner's black 1992 Ford pickup was also stolen from the school parking lot.

- A grinch-type thief stole a three foot tall plastic snowman and North Pole sign from the front of a home on Huron River drive on Dec. 19.

- A would-be thief apparently was frightened away from stealing a 1997 Jeep Grand Cherokee that was parked on Middlebelt road on Dec. 20. The owner said the front door was pried open, setting off the car's alarm.

- A gold necklace and engagement ring were reportedly stolen from a woman's apartment on Brookway on Dec. 20. Police said a maintenance person may have stolen the jewelry.

- A 1996 Jeep Cherokee was reported stolen on Dec. 16 from Wyndham Gardens on Merriman road. It later was recovered two days later in Detroit.

Romulus schools score in court

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The Romulus Community School District was given an early Christmas present last Thursday, as Circuit Court Judge Kathleen McDonald ruled the local school district has the right to operate a school of choice inside the city of Detroit.

A spokesman for the Detroit School District said it will appeal the decision.

Romulus Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell, who attended the court session along with Assistant Superintendent Joel Carr and district lawyers, felt relieved with McDonald's decision.

"Now we (the Romulus School District and Barons School Inc.) can concentrate on program and curriculum," he said.

In recent weeks the school building in Detroit has been closed down by the Detroit Fire Marshall for various complaints including that of improper fire and smoke devices.

The school of choice was opened this fall after Barons representatives had solicited Detroit school dropouts to work to re-enter the work force by earning employable skills at the Romulus-Barons school.

As an enticement to enter the school program, students were offered a $50 voucher every two weeks during which time they must have attended at least 80 percent of the classes and daycare was offered those students with children.

Bedell said the voucher money could be used for transportation or lunch costs if the students wished.

But more than a month after the school opened, the Detroit School District filed suit against the Romulus schools claiming that its effort "was an act of piracy."

The Detroit Schools sought a restraining order to close the school of choice, but that was denied.

Dr. William Bedell

Bedell said that McDonald read her decision at the court session last week.

Lawmakers and state school officials are watching the outcome of this court hearing and see how it impacts the state's school of choice policy.

The Romulus-Barons School had opened with approximately 1,000 students, but because of the constant brief closings by the Detroit Fire Marshall, Bedell said the daily count had dropped to about 400.

Barring any quick change in status via an appeals court decision, Bedell feels sure that the daily school population count will quickly rise again.

Bedell also expressed no concern last Friday when informed that Gov. John Engler decided to trim the duties of the Michigan Board of Education and pass on many of those responsibilities to State Superintendent Art Ellis.

Bedell and Engler have tangled in the past over various state school funding issues.

But Bedell said he feels that Ellis really has the interest of Michigan students at heart and helped Romulus-Barons' Schools in recent months.

"Surprisingly what Engler did this time actually might make sense," Bedell said.

Pedestrian hit by auto, dies

A 33-year-old Roseville man was struck and killed while walking on Inkster road in Romulus about 9:30 p.m. Friday.

Romulus Lt. Robert Brown said the victim Timothy Allen Taylor was apparently walking along the slim shoulder of the road (just north of Goddard road). He was pronounced dead a short time later at Ann apolis Hospital.

Brown said that the driver of the vehicle was a 29-year-old Romulus resident, who was operating a 1991 black Chevrolet.

Brown said that alcohol was a factor in the fatal accident.

The investigation is continuing, Brown said, and no charges have been pressed at this time.

Cancer victim, 8, coming home for Christmas week

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Eight-year-old brain tumor victim Cymonne Pyles reportedly was flown home from St. Jude's Medical Center in Nashville this week to spend the Christmas holidays with her Romulus family.

Cymonne, a student at Hale Creek Elementary School, was diagnosed with a tumor on the brain shortly before Halloween 1996.

Later 60-80 percent of the tumor was removed by doctors, who claimed an attempt to remove any more would be too dangerous.

She returned home weeks ago and for a short period of time attended school half a day.

Last week she was flown back to Nashville and was admitted to St. Jude's. Chemotherapy efforts were begun and were to be continued through her holiday stay with her Romulus family. Her parents are Jeff and Deborah Pyles. She has a brother, Brock, 11, and a sister, Tarah, 7.

Mayor William Oakley, a spokesperson for the Friends of Cymonne Pyles Committee, revealed that a large fund-raising spaghetti supper for Cymonne is being planned for 5 to 7 p.m. Jan. 29 at the Romulus Senior High School.

Oakley said tickets for the dinner can be obtained at City Hall and at all the Romulus public schools.

Belleville man arrested after low-speed chase

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

A low-speed chase from Detroit ended with Van Buren Police arresting a 35-year old Belleville man.

According to Detective Sergeant Greg Laurain, the evening of Dec. 19 began with a prostitution sting in Detroit. The Belleville man fled the scene in his car. Detroit Police chased the man down west-bound I-94, into Allen Park. Police from that city then requested help from Van Buren Police in stopping the man at about 10:30 p.m., as he was driving erratically, forcing other vehicles off of the road. "This was not a high-speed chase," Laurain explained. "The driver stayed within the speed limit. We followed him to Ypsilanti, near Huron Street, where we were able to block him in with our cars and bring him to a stop."

The detective explained that the man rammed one of the Van Buren police cars from behind, causing minor damage. He also hit another police car, almost taking the door off. A Van Buren police officer injured his knee in the melee, and was treated and released from Beyer Hospital.

Live nativity at Canton church draws crowds to stable

By HEATHER McEDHAM
MCN Staff Writer

In an effort to offer alternatives to such quintessential holiday images as Santa Claus, reindeer, candy canes and holly, a Canton church has presented the story of the birth of Jesus Christ in a unique way.

As part of this effort, area residents recently got a rare opportunity to see a nativity scene with real people playing the roles, including a live baby Jesus.

Christ the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Canton launched its first-ever live outdoor nativity scene, as well as numerous indoor activities for those who didn't want to brave the cold.

Portraying Jesus, the wise men, Joseph and Mary were church members. The role of baby Jesus was rotated between several babies.

Inside, people could walk through the church and see 200 different miniature nativity scenes, as well as watch a play about the Christmas story, as told in the Bible's New Testament.

Kim Marquette, church member and director of the Board of Fellowship, said 650 people turned out for the festivities, and the church is already planning on a similar event for next year.

"We heard a lot of positive comments from people," Marquette said. Some comments overheard were that the scenes were "awesome," and that it was a wonderful way to bring Christ back into Christmas.

In addition, the weather was cooperative, and several babies played the role of Jesus.

"The weather was beautiful," Marquette said.

In the Biblical story, Mary and Joseph, after being told several months before that she would bear the son of God, sought shelter in several inns around Bethlehem to give birth. They were in Bethlehem answering a taxation call.

On that night, now called Christmas Eve, they were only able to find shelter in a barn, where Jesus was born in a manger lined with hay. Three wise men brought him gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. Christians believe this is what started the gift-giving associated with Christmas.

Organizers said it's important to keep Jesus Christ in Christmas festivities. Other forces can distract people from remembering the sole person they feel has made Christmas possible-- Jesus Christ.

"This is an opportunity to have a Christian Christmas other than one with Santa Claus and Rudolph," Marquette said.

"The exciting part is in sharing the real Christmas story with the community," she said.

People also had the opportunity to have their photos taken with baby Jesus, for free.

And they went in haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

Christmas spirit abounds in Western Wayne communities

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Dreams came true this holiday season for scores of area families who were helped through the Michigan Community Newspapers Christmas Wish program.

The spirit of Christmas -- the love for one's fellow man and the generous helping of those who are less fortunate -- was evident as dozens of businesses contributed to the Christmas Wish program and, consequently, made many dreams come true.

MCN received requests for bicycles, various toys and games. But others dreams were for the basics -- food and clothing -- what most of us take for granted in our daily lives. The dreams of two families were for grave markers to denote the sites where their infants are buried.

With the help of the community, scores of requests were filled.

Churches, fraternal organizations, groups and individuals also extended their helping hands to the needy.

For example, Linda Combs of the Eagles of Van Buren Township requested the name of a family that lodge members could help from among the letters received by the newspaper.

The Eagles were matched with a Van Buren Township woman who wrote, "I'm writing for the family. I'm in debt to where we cannot afford to get the furnace replaced or fixed at this time. I have two children who are asthmatic and I have arthritis, and I have my sister and here two kids living with me (the baby is 8 months old). Times have been hard because my husband lost his good job and is working at a job making $6.50 an hour. It barely makes the bills, so trying to do Christmas is going to be out of the question."

The children's names were placed on the Eagles' Christmas tree along with other needy children, and members are buying gift for them.

Business people in Belleville brought toys to their annual Chamber of Commerce Christmas Party, and the items were donated to the Goodfellows.

The spirit of Christmas is alive and well in Western Wayne County.

Chrismons give trees spiritual meaning

The Christmas tree in the Sanctuary of Belleville First United Methodist Church is decorated rather uniquely.

Instead of using regular Christmas bulbs of all shapes and colors, they have decorated the tree using Chrismons.

In 1957, Frances K. Spencer, a member of the Lutheran Church of Ascension in Danville, Va., decided to do something different to decorate the church Christmas tree. Using authentic Christian symbols found in ancient jewelry, utensils, buildings, and even the catacombs, Spencer designed the first Chrismons. The word "Chrismon" combines two words, "Christ," and "monogram."

Each ornament is made in white to symbolize purity and perfection, and gold, which symbolizes Christ's majesty and glory. Instead of using multi-colored, blinking lights, a Chrismon tree has tiny white lights, used to demonstrate that Christ is the light of the world.

A few years ago, a group at Belleville First United Methodist Church created new Chrismons to replace those that were worn and damaged.

Belleville United Methodist Church secretary Carla Gibson and the Rev. Dr. David Strong, pastor, (above) place Chrismons on the church tree. Chrismons (left) take their name from the words Christian and monogram, and are symbols of the Christian Church, such as various types of crosses -- Greek, Roman, Celtic and St. Andrew. Symbols of the early church include the dove (for peace and the Holy Spirit), fish (the secret symbol used to identify Christians during their persecution) and star (for the star of Bethlehem). The Chrismons are white to symbolize purity and perfection and gold to signify majesty and glory. Those used in the Belleville church were made by the congregation. MCN photo by Lori Gillespie

'96 Entertainment Happenings

Resolutions provided for those too busy to make some Great actions are not always true sons

Of great and mighty resolutions.—Samuel Butler
In the event that you are too busy to make New Year's resolutions for 1997, we have provided some for you. The first, obviously, would be to resolve not to become too busy to make resolutions for 1998!

In 1997 resolve to:

1. Exercise more -- not just stretching your arm to reach for a second helping.
2. Get a flu shot before the influenza season starts so you won't be coughing, sneezing and wheezing next winter.
3. Not get into a check-out line for six items or less when you have 27 items in your grocery cart.
4. Start Christmas shopping early, so you can smugly say "I'm all done" while your friends are rushing around on Dec. 24 to purchase last-minute gifts.
5. Refrain from giving unsolicited advice -- thereby retaining more friends in 1997.
6. Find a place to store keys so you won't be playing the game of Find the Keys when its time to go out. (The same works with eyeglasses -- select one place to leave them so you won't have to play the game of Feel Around for the Glasses).
7. Get your credit cards balances in manageable order -- and keep them at that level.
8. Refrain from falling into the habit of gossiping. If you encourage it, you may become the next victim yourself!
9. Set some attainable goals for 1997, and experience the satisfaction of reaching them.
10. Read more and watch TV less!

P.S. Here's a few resolutions for my cat, Harriet: I resolve not to climb on the table; not to snatch scraps from plates if someone leaves the table; not to awaken at 6 a.m. on the weekend and then awaken everyone in the house, and not to be so darn finicky!

First movie theater in Western Wayne celebrates 50th birthday

Remember when movies were 50 cents and popcorn was only five cents a bag? Lines at the box office were enormous as the marquee showcased such movie icons as Clark Gable, Cary Grant and Judy Garland.

For some people, those days seem far far away. But, for Charles Shafer, it still seems like yesterday.

Shafer, his father Walter and brother Martin were the first owners of movie theaters in Western Wayne County some 50 years ago including the State Wayne Theater in the City of Wayne.

On Dec. 29, the State Wayne Theater, which has "the" biggest marquee in Michigan, will celebrate its 50th birthday in a community which supports all that a movie theater offers including family togetherness, bigger than life stories that challenge the imagination and a wide variety of entertainment. It was the very first theater to open in Wayne County, according to Charles Shafer.

"On Dec. 29, 1946 my father opened the State Wayne Theater which was one of the first movie theaters in Michigan," said Shafer. "At that time Wayne was not very populated. The theater opened with one house that had 1,500 seats."

Shafer said moviemakers were really concentrating on producing as many films as they could in the 1940s and 1950s. There were so many arriving at the movie theaters that a new film would be shown every two to three days during the week.

"Movies were probably even more popular back then," said Shafer. "You had a choice of either staying at home with the family and listening to the radio because television didn't exist in those days or you went to the movie theater."

In 1983 the Shafer family decided to split the one-house theater into two with 700 seats on each side. The first film shown at the State Wayne starred Robert Mitchum. One of the flicks that drew a huge crowd was "Duel in the Sun" with Gregory Peck.

Shafer said all the ushers at the State Wayne Theater were Wayne youths who really enjoyed their job.

"They wore uniforms as they still do today," said Shafer. "Some of the ushers back then have now become senators, attorneys and business executives."

A unique glow-in-the-dark dragon was painted on the northeast wall of one of the theater houses. The dragon still remains in the State Wayne which is now owned by the city of Wayne.

"We sold the State Wayne Theater in 1986 to the National Amusement Co.," said Shafer. "The city purchased it in 1990."

Wayne operates the State Wayne Theater today showing second-run movies. The Shafer family, which owned more than 10 theaters between 1940 and 1980 now owns the Ford Wyoming Theater.

With movies theaters thriving and some even growing to 20 screens, it's no wonder the Shafer family remained faithful to an entertainment industry that continues to mesmerize audiences of all ages for a lifetime.

Jubilee planned for New Year's Eve

Yes, believe it or not, it's time to start thinking about New Year's Eve plans.

Thousands of people have enjoyed the first four Jubilees, and this year's promises to be just as much fun and entertaining, according to the sponsors.

Over 40 performances by 30-plus different performers have been booked into the local churches and buildings in and around Ypsilanti's Historic District from 6:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. on New Year's Eve. By purchasing an admission badge, visitors can travel from site to site throughout the evening, enjoying the performances. In addition, there will be plenty to eat and drink at the Jubilee. Most of the entertainment sites are planning special food and beverage options for the evening. In addition, visitors can enjoy the Festival of Lights display in Riverside Park.

Adults can purchase badges in advance for $10 each (or $15 at the door). Children ages 6 to 12 can get a badge for $5 each, and children five and under can attend the Jubilee for free.

For families who would like to attend the Jubilee, but feel it may not be affordable right after the expense of the holiday season, a limited number of free badges are available. For more information, call Lynda Hummel at (313) 483-5861.

The Jubilee will feature a number of very well-known performers this year. The Freight House in Depot Town will feature dancing with Nite Flight, Calypso and reggae music, during the first part of the evening, and finish off the second half of the evening dancing to the rockabilly music of George Bedard and the Kingpins.

At the Riverside Arts Center, one of this area's favorite comedians, O.J. Anderson, will use comedy, mime and clowning, performing from 7 to 8 p.m. O.J., followed by the Lone Star Country Line dance group.

In addition to hearing flight announcements at Wayne Metro Airport this season, Christmas carols are being heard.

Through Dec. 24, a variety of choral groups and musicians from local high schools, churches and community organizations are spreading their good cheer at the airport.

Among the performers are groups from Wayne Memorial High School, Inkster Christian Academy, Saint City Church and the Salvation Army of Dearborn Heights.

How to survive the holiday blues

Has the holiday season arrived without you?

Since we can't control the season's arrival, it's not unusual for adults to feel out-of-synch with the holiday crowd. These tips from Oakwood Healthcare System behavioral medicine professionals might help you pick up your spirits and see you through.

Since "tradition" is one of the hallmarks of the holidays, you might feel acutely sad if it's not possible to carry out some of your usual traditions. If you have recently lost a loved one, if the holiday season is the anniversary of such a loss, or if your living situation has changed in the past year and you are away from loved ones, remember that you can start new holiday traditions. They may not seem like much at first, but if you are able to repeat them over the next few years, they'll begin to feel comfortable.

If you are feeling blue, it's difficult to have much enthusiasm for social expectations such as gift-giving or party-going. Participate at a level that feels comfortable to you, but try not to isolate yourself entirely. A little participation might lift your spirits.

The holiday season is a good time to spend evenings with a good book or quiet music. Write letters to friends and loved ones instead of sending cards. By staying involved in some activity, you may find your mood lifting.

There are many social service programs for people in need over the holidays. Taking time to participate, if only for a few hours, can be a good way out of the holiday doldrums and help bring season's greetings to others.

Many adults experience holiday blues. If you are not able to compensate for it in some other way, or feel that the "blues" might be drifting into depression, seek help.

Whyman law exempts hearing aid batteries from sales tax Legislation sponsored by Rep. Deborah Whyman, eliminating the sales tax on hearing aid batteries, has become law.

"Under a state constitutional amendment starting in 1975, grocery food and pharmaceuticals are exempt from the sales tax," said Whyman, R-Canton Township. "Exempting hearing aid batteries is a proper continuation of that important amendment."

Whyman, a member of the Tax Policy Committee, said an apparatus or device used to replace any part of the human body and anything used to assist a disabled person lead a better life should be exempt from the tax.

"Many seniors live on fixed incomes and are more negatively affected by the sales tax," Whyman said.

Under Public Acts 435-6, the sales and use tax on exchange equipment used for long-distance service also is eliminated.

Newspaper outlines objectives for 1997

As we look forward to the new year, Michigan Community Newspapers pledges to focus its primary attention in 1997 on the needs, concerns and goals of the six communities it serves.

As in the past, our coverage will be a broad spectrum of the happenings in the six communities. We will continue to record the milestones in the lives of our readers, present informative and entertaining articles, list the sports happenings and report the news of the police beats and the courtrooms.

We plan some changes in our format — all geared to presenting a more readable and interesting product to our readers.

Our place in the community is to be a leader, not a follower. In keeping with that commitment, we will strive to evaluate the needs of the communities we serve and editorially support the legislation, programs and proposals that will have a positive impact on economic growth and aesthetic enhancement of Western Wayne County.

In our leadership role, we will diligently strive to be politically independent, supporting the best candidates for office no matter which party label they bear. We will also evaluate legislation on the same basis — supporting that which will have a positive effect on our communities and their residents and opposing those which do not.

Our goals in 1997 for Western Wayne County are:

- Positive economic growth by expanding and diversifying the employment base, encouraging unified marketing efforts to attract new business development and supporting legislation designed to improve the economic climate.

- Quality education by implementing high academic standards, increasing cooperation between parents, teachers, administrators and businesses, and developing curricula that addresses the needs of the job markets in the 21st Century.

- Safe communities by supporting the passage of laws and ordinances to combat crime and assure appropriate punishment for convicted lawbreakers. We also support such programs as Community Policing, the Drug Awareness Resistance Education, Neighborhood Watch and other community-police cooperative efforts.

- Environmental responsibility for all citizens in their purchasing, use and disposal of products and the careful monitoring of existing waste disposal sites and extreme caution in future site approvals.

- Fairness in taxation with the burden shared as equally as possible by all segments of the community, and an accompanying fiscal responsibility from taxing units to be accountable and prudent in their spending of the taxpayers' dollars.

- Support of local cultural endeavors by encouraging area artists, craftsmen, musicians, entertainers and performers and supporting their efforts to organize and maintain local theater, art and entertainment productions.

Hospital praised

To the editor:

Your community is so fortunate to have Annapolis Hospital nearby. My husband Henry, was hospitalized for a month and died in August. His care was wonderful, his last days were filled with compassion and dignity.

Dr. Ovatee and Dr. Dove spent time with my family, patiently explaining his status, our concerns and his care plan. They answered our many questions simply and honestly.

Each nurse went above and beyond the call of duty. They provided so much more than medication and treatments. They touched the lives of the families. Even when my husband was unresponsive, he was treated gently and respectfully.

I appreciated the professional care and kindness. I will never forget their comfort and kind heartedness.

Monica Dubiel

Take care when giving

To the editor:

As executive director of First Step, a private non-profit agency providing services for families experiencing domestic violence and/or sexual assault, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the persons who generously demonstrate the spirit of giving during this holiday season. The outpouring of contributions we receive is heartwarming. Individuals, groups, businesses, churches and others all unselfishly respond to the needs of people less fortunate than themselves.

At the same time, I would like to remind everyone of a few tips about charitable giving:

- Anytime you give more than $1.00, make it by check, money order or credit card so that you have a record.

- Be leery of the emotional pitch, ask how the agency spends their money.

- Check with the Better Business Bureau or the Attorney General's office. Every licensed charitable organization must be registered with the Charitable Trust Division of the Attorney General's Office.

- Keep a record of past donations, be cautious of letters that say, "Thank-you for your past donation" if you don't immediately recognize the group as one you have previously supported.

- Ask for a copy of the group's annual report, reputable organizations will always be glad to give you one.

Remember, if you ever have a question or a feeling that something isn't on the up and up call the executive director of the agency or group you would like to support. Credible agencies will welcome your calls and can clarify any procedures or questions you may have.

On behalf of all charitable organizations, I thank the many citizens who at this time and throughout the year, give generously to improve the quality of lives of others.

Children need home

To the editor:

Methodist Children's Home Society is again campaigning to recruit foster families for children ages 0 to 14, and we are seeking your assistance in our recruitment efforts. We ask that you print the following information in the public, community or calendar information section of your paper.

Every day, many children are left without a place to go due to neglect, abandonment or abuse. Methodist Children's Home Society seeks to find homes for these children through public advertising in newspapers such as yours. We can't express how important your support is to our agency.

If you have questions or need additional information, please contact me at 531-4155. Thank you for your willingness to help us help children who desperately need loving homes and families.

6th graders disappointed

To the editor:

How would you define the word "disappointment"?

Well, the sixth graders at West Middle School define it as an "opportunity lost" because of the cancellation of science camp for them this school year.

Eight of the ten 6th grade teachers at West Middle School have chosen not to conduct science camp for their pupils this year. Why? We don't know for sure. The parents have been told there are several reasons but no specific reasons have been given to us. If these reasons are because it involves too much work on the teachers part outside of their contracted hours, let us know. There are more than enough parents who are willing to do whatever work is needed to assure a successful science camp. All that would be required of you is to teach the curriculum.

This hands-on experience has proven to be highly successful and educational over and over to the learning process of our children. Remember, only part of what we learn from books can help our children through their lives.

The parents of our 6th graders at West Middle School request that you reconsider your decision for cancellation of science camp and let the parents work

Teachers overpaid?

To the editor:
The subjective opinions and conclusions reached by teachers suggesting that the classroom instructors today are generally subjected to scorn and ridicule is surprising. The claim by teachers in recent weeks that identification as instructors brings them expressions of abhorrence and loathing is unbelievable. The same people believe that teachers are underpaid. Some are, but tens of thousands across the land are not. Many are overpaid and I write that because many teachers do not achieve at the level for which they are paid.

Just as thousands of minimum wage workers are overpaid because they don't produce the income sufficient to cover what they are paid, and this determination can be measured, some teachers do not produce at the level which ensures that students will be ready for the sequential classes in which they will enroll.

Some of the best people I have known in my lifetime have been teachers. Not only were they very able in the classroom, but they were great people, very moral individuals, instructors that students could consider themselves very lucky to have known. Too many teachers, however, really don't belong in the classroom. Many are often tardy to school and many miss 10, 15, and more school days each school year, ostensibly out of school sick, but many times to shop, to keep a doctor's appointment, to take the family car to the shop for repairs.

There are measurements of teacher accomplishments we can use to determine their effectiveness. The scores of children in reading comprehension, science, and math have declined in recent years despite better schools, better equipment, and better materials. There can be a plethora of evaluation instruments that measure the student's progress in the several areas of school endeavor, and the teacher's performance, too, can be evaluated in several ways if those responsible for teacher creditability would take the responsibility for doing so.

That teachers are not held to account doesn't mean that they can not be. Even an unscientific determination like asking the students walking in the halls who the able teachers in the school are suggests that the very able teachers ought to be paid considerably more than those who can't or won't get the job done. Yes, there are teachers who could do a good job in the classroom but don't, and there are instructors who are just not capable, lacking knowledge and understanding of the subject's content and/or exhibiting an inability to get students to learn.

Charity work continues

To the editor:
One year ago the Society of St. Vincent De Paul lost its central warehousing, sorting, distribution, and service center on Gratiot Avenue in Detroit in a spectacular fire. It was complete loss.

While the fire was still smoldering, the community was mobilizing to help the Society during those difficult days. Kmart made one of its buildings in Melvindale available for us to use as a temporary warehouse. Thousands of generous individuals, families, and corporations from Detroit and all over the U.S. came forward with financial and material help to see us through that catastrophe. The response of our friends, neighbors, and former clients was tremendous and humbling at the same time. We made it through those days because of your love and concern for the individuals and families that we help through the most difficult times in their lives. We thank you and love you for that!

Since last December, we have been working very hard to stabilize our operations and to replace the facilities that we need to fulfill our twofold mission of helping those in need and working to discover and eliminate the root causes of poverty. We will have more to tell you about the Society's plans over the next few months.

A holiday surprise turns into disaster

There is always an element of danger in arranging a surprise for someone, and my experience last weekend has convinced me that the risk of disaster is not worth the excitement of plotting a surprise.

Because I'm usually preoccupied with thoughts of early deadlines, holiday features and future assignments, I would not normally undertake a special venture at this time of year. Now that I think about it, that not only seems to be an excellent idea, but a good rule to live by.

However, before I became enlightened to the dangers of surprises, I decided to present my spouse with a birthday gift of something he has always wanted to do -- as a surprise.

While pondering what to get him for his birthday, just four days before Christmas, I remembered him saying that he would like to ride in a limousine. It seemed like a simple request to fill -- I would rent a limo from a local business, arrange for a pick-up at our home at 6:30 p.m. Friday and drive in style with a group of friends to our company Christmas party.

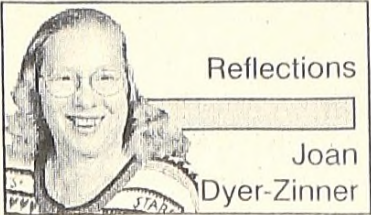

I could imagine the surprised look on his face, but little did I suspect that the look on all of our faces would reflect surprise and then some.

We gathered at 6:15 p.m. to put the last touches on our preparations and then stalled until the time that the limo was to arrive.

The time came and went, and no limo. My spouse became edgy, asking why we couldn't get ready on time. Again, we stalled.

At 6:45 p.m., I left the others and called the limo service from an extension phone. "He should be there now," said the man in the limo office. "If there is any problem, I'll call you back."

At 7 p.m., we became agitated.

Reflections

Joan Dyer-Zinner

Dinner was to be served at 7:30 p.m. and we still had one member of our party to pick up -- time was running out.

When I called the second time, I was told to "hold," which indicated to me that there was indeed a problem and that the fellow on the phone didn't want to be the one to give me the bad news.

I was correct! The man on the phone gave me a fictional account of the reason why there was no limo in my driveway and then just to put more salt in the wound, concluded by saying, "You'd better get to your party the best way you can."

We did get to the party after 8 p.m., which was after the rest of the guests had eaten their meal and we entertained our co-workers with the "Sad Tale of the Birthday Surprise Gone Awry."

I received a refund -- I haven't deposited the check in the bank yet -- so I can only hope that I haven't sustained a financial loss.

P.S. The next day we told the story to our youngest son, who is planning to be married in July. "What company was it," he asked. We told him and the color drained from his face. Yes, an 18-passenger limo has been ordered to take the wedding party to the church from the same company.

All I can say is that I don't think we'll have to hurry to get ready for the wedding. I'm sure we'll have plenty of time for meditation at the church before the wedding party arrives.

Holiday hoop special: Wayne vs. Pershing in Classic

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial and Detroit Pershing - two of the state's premier high school basketball teams - will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Cobo Arena in the nightcap of the third annual Superintendent's Classic hosted by Dr. David Snead, the superintendent of the Detroit Public Schools.

The four-game classic begins at 2 p.m. and also will involve Westland John Glenn (See Related Story) on this page.

Wayne, the defending Mega Conference, Red Division champ, will place a 3-1 overall record on the block against a Pershing which is undefeated in their first two starts. The Doughboys crushed Frederick Douglas Academy and whipped cross town rival, Detroit Osborn.

Wayne coach Chuck Henry said, "that Pershing has a lot of weapons it can unleash against you."

"They are physical and they have experience," Henry stressed. "We can't make mistakes against a team like that."

Pershing has Ohio State-bound Shamar Herron, a 6-8 senior down low, and 5-9 ball whiz Dejaun Williams in the backcourt. Meandering between the two is a 6-2 power forward Darius Acuff who, along with Spencer Frazier, are the deadliest of the Doughboys.

Wayne's inside-outside combo includes team captain Lorenzo Guess, a 6-3 point guard, who has gotten off to a fast start in his senior year. Teamed in the backcourt with his twin, Lavelle, and with 6-4 Richard Rashad in the post, Wayne has four-year veterans in these three players.

The match up between these two Class A state powers could be one of the most exciting games of the season.

Incidentally, Pershing boasted a 23-1 record a year ago, losing in the regional finals to state finalist Southfield Lathrup, a team that also eliminated Wayne in the semifinals of the state playoffs.

In the meantime, Wayne rebounded from its first loss of the season, a 70-56 shellacking at the hands of DePorres, to cool Romulus, 67-58, Thursday night in their third outing of the young season.

Since everyone is suddenly talking about the weather, the simile that Romulus was as cold as the arctic mass that covered the area when the Eagles came to town Thursday night is apropos.

Wayne outscored their visitors 18-8 and 19-9 in the first two periods and looked invincible as the half ended with Zebras enjoying a 20-point (37-17) lead.

But Lou Adkins and Sean Dick sparked a third-period Romulus comeback as each scored five points to help erase Romulus' deficit.

At the end of three, the two teams were tied at 47 before Romulus ran out of fuel.

Romulus' senior, Brandon Deyampert, led his team with 17 points while Lorenzo Guess topped all scorers with 21 points and nine rebounds. Rashad added 13 and Shomari Dunn, who scored seven first-period points, accounted for 12 points.

DePorres bludgeoned Wayne in the second quarter, corralling the Zebras with a 26-11 edge that ended Wayne's party early.

Wayne trailed by as much as 15 at the half (44-29) and never was a factor after the initial half.

"We disintegrated in the second period," said Henry, "and by the time we realized what was happening, it was too late."

In that pivotal period, senior guard Jason Small came up with nine of his 17 points. Terenun Johnson scored 13 for the winners.

Lorenzo scored 18 and Lavelle tossed in 13 for the losers who came within 12 of closing the gap after three (56-44). DePorres sealed its third win with a 14-13 scoring advantage in the final eight minutes of the game.

Randi Goodin (above) is one of three all-conference spikers who is returning to Belleville coach Terry Leonard's lineup this season. Goodin was tough to top in action at the net (photo at right) last year and could be the key to a Belleville repeat in the Mega Conference this year. However, the Tigers will have to make up for lost practice time. Last week only eight of the 14 team members showed up because the rest of the lineup was nursing the flu.

Repeat?

Tigers poised to strike for title

With three of their players who made the all-conference returning to the lineup, Belleville is poised to repeat its title run in volleyball in the Mega Conference.

Coach Terry Leonard's Tigers dominated the Mega Blue Division a year ago, winning their first-ever volleyball title in the three-year-old conference. And this year with Randi Goodin, Brianne Leonard and Nicole Pond returning to the lineup, the defending champs could repeat.

If the flu bug would just go away.

"We had only eight of 14 players show up for practice last week. The others reportedly were out with the flu," noted the Belleville coach. "When we get out entire team back, I have the potential to go all the way again."

In the meantime, flu-bug immune Plymouth-Canton continued to roll.

The Chiefs traveled to Ann Arbor Huron where they defeated the River Rats in three straight sets, 15-12, 15-6, and 15-2.

Canton's defense stood out as Jessica Orleman came up with 28 digs and Nikki Kovachevich and Jenny Sikora carded 20 and 14 digs, respectively.

Amy Plagens made her varsity debut at middle hitter, replacing Stephanie Chefan in the position. Chefan was out ill.

Plagens came up with a stellar performance as she contributed five kills and seven digs in the Canton victory. Jessica Bradley and Megan Weller also made strong contributions to the Chiefs' cause combining for 10 digs and a pair of aces.

Jessica Orleman also earned Volleyball Prep Star of the Week honors for her sterling performance at the Allen Park Invitational last week. The Chiefs captured the tourney title, their first major tournament win of the current campaign.

Ex-stars shine at WSU

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Ex-Westland John Glenn basketball star Tony Goins and Belleville's Mike Foley head a list of former stars who are with the Tartars of Wayne State University.

Goins, a 6-6, 205-pound sophomore sensation who hails from Inkster is a 1994 graduate of Glenn where he was an All-State and All-Area player. A returning starter at one of the forward slots, Goins is also an All-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference candidate.

A year ago, he started in 22 of 25 games and was named the WSU Freshman of the Year after leading the Tartars with a 14.2 scoring average. He scored a career high 31 points against Ashland and scored 20 points in six of the 22 games he started.

Goins also was a two year captain and MVP for Glenn coach Mike Schuette's Rockets. As a prep he scored a game high 36 points, 16 rebounds and 10 assists.

Goins is in Interdisciplinary Studies and his parents are Robert and Gwennetta Goins.

Foley, a Romulus resident, prepped at Belleville High and also is a 1994 graduate. He is expected to start as a shooting guard and is definitely a GLIAC conference candidate, according to the Tartar staff.

A starter for WSU in 11 of their games a year ago, he scored in double digits in 11 of the games, including a career high 23-points against Mercyhurst.

In a winning effort, Foley also dished out seven assists and scored 15 points against Oakland.

As a member of coach Mike Garland's team at Belleville, Foley was an all-conference, All-Area and also All-Suburban after captaining the Tigers two Mega Conference, Red Division championship teams.

He had a phenomenal 22-point single quarter which stands as a Belleville High record and also scored a career high 31 points.

Mike also quarterbacked the Tigers and was named the team's MVP as a senior.

A Speech Communications major, Foley was born on Aug. 4, 1975 to Linda Foley.

With help of freshman guard, Glenn crushes Harrison, 75-70

Usually freshmen have a tough time making a team let alone breaking into the starting rotation.

But Eric Jones, a 5-9 point guard is apparently an unusual player. Jones not only has made the grade on Glenn coach Mike Schuette's team, but undeniably he is one of the players to keep your eyes on.

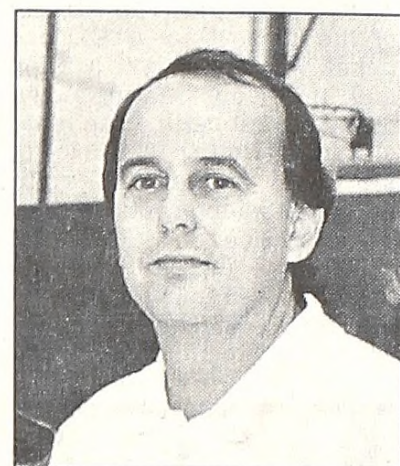

Jones established himself as a sharpshooter Thursday night as he led the Rockets to a 75-70 victory over Farmington Hills Harrison in a crossover Western Lakes Conference basketball game.

The victory snapped a two-game Glenn losing streak and gave the fifth-year coach his first win of the season.

The Rockets punished Harrison in the first half as Dave Jarrett and Jon Beecher teamed with Justin Berent and Lou Hartwig - all outstanding football players - to dominate the boards.

Before the final whistle sounded, the Westlanders had outboarded their visitors 40-12.

"I think the kids have lost their football muscles," said Schuette, whose club looked anything but impressive in their two starts that resulted in losses to Wayne Memorial and Ann Arbor Huron.

Jones finished with a game high 25 points. But he also proved he is no stranger when it comes to play-making and bursting past guards.

"Eric has exceptional talent," Schuette stressed.

Two other Glenn players scored in double figures - Brad Wilde chipped in with 12 points and Jarrett scored 11 points to go along with his nine rebounds.

Glenn is one of eight teams invited to play in the Superintendent's Classic hosted by Dr. David Snead, superintendent of the Detroit Public Schools, the largest school district in Michigan.

The tournament in its third year will bring together four suburban teams to play four of the top teams in the Detroit Public Schools League.

The Rockets are scheduled to play at 6 p.m. Dec. 27 in the Cobo Arena where they will meet Detroit Denby. Denby is ranked in the top five in the state and, according to Schuette, has been playing flawlessly in the early stages of the season.

"I don't see any weaknesses in this Denby team," the Glenn coach noted. "They have experience, are physically tough, and their lineup includes one of the finest high school players in the state in Sidney Mitchell (6-3). We're going to have our hands full trying to stop him."

After the holidays, Glenn has a few days to get out the kinks. They will entertain Livonia Churchill on Jan. 7 for their second Western Lakes Conference game.

Romulus to host 2Ball tourney

If shooting hoops is your game, and you're between the ages of 9-17, you may want to check out the competition at Romulus Middle School next month.

Romulus has been designated as one of the sites for the inaugural McDonald's NBA 2Ball, the league's youth skills competition.

In 2Ball, two teammates alternate taking shots from six different locations on the floor. The teammates alternate shooting from the various spots for 60 seconds, accumulating as many points as possible before the time expires.

Obviously, the team with the most points will be declared the winner.

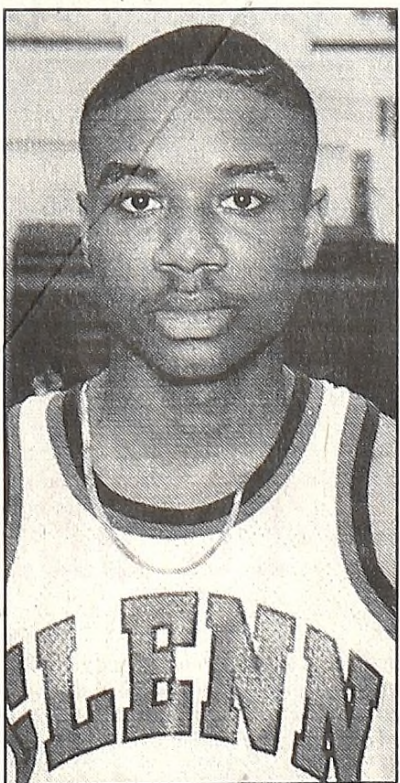

More than 40 local competitions throughout the state, including the one in Romulus at the Middle School will be staged. The competitions in Romulus will be conducted on Jan. 18.

A state final will be staged later this year prior to a Pistons game at The Palace of Auburn Hills. Winners at NBA arenas across the country will pursue the National McDonald's 2Ball Championship to be staged in conjunction with an NBA playoff game.

Entry information for McDonald's NBA 2Ball is available by calling the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department at 313-942-6852.

The competitions are also supported by the Detroit Pistons, Meijer, Coca-Cola and the Michigan Parks and Recreation Association.

Wayne's 'Oldtimers' invited to compete

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

They may have swam away into the sunset, but the Wayne Memorial "Oldtimers" have not been forgotten.

They are invited to return to the pool where some made their biggest splashes to compete in Wayne Memorial's annual Oldtimers Swim Meet.

The meet will be staged beginning at 7 p.m. on Dec. 30 at the Wayne High swimming pool.

Wayne coach Mike Gruber will have some 14 swimmers ready to test the stamina of those who at one time defended the Zebras' honor.

"We're inviting all of our former swimmers - men and women - who wish to come back and have some fun to participate in this meet," said Gruber. "This has always been a fun meet."

Wayne will return to dual meeting competition after the New Year when they clash with out-of-conference rival, Ypsilanti, on Jan. 14. Wayne wrapped up 1996 phase of the season Thursday night with a victory over Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Tigers to roll back ticket prices in 1997

The Detroit Tigers have announced their 1997 ticket prices, featuring sizable reduction in the cost of more than 14,000 seats at Tiger Stadium and a decrease in the average ticket price of over a dollar compared to 1996 rates.

Prices are being reduced on all upper reserved seating, as well as upper box seating located in the left and right outfield areas. Priced at $12 a year ago, upper reserved seats may now be purchased for just $8 each. Also, upper box seats in the outfield between the foul poles may now be bought for $10 each, a savings of $5 over the 1996 fare.

In all, 14,477 seats are being reduced in price this season, a total which includes 13,105 upper reserved and 1,372 upper box seats. That figure means that 31 percent of Tiger Stadium's total seating capacity of 46,945 will have a lower price in 1997.

The prices of many seats remain the same as last season, including the premium seating of the Tiger Den at $20 per ticket. All lower box seating and upper box seating down the lines and behind the plate also maintain the 1996 price of $15 each, and left and right field grandstand seats are still priced at $8 each.

The lone increase in Tiger ticket prices for 1997 comes in the double-decked bleacher area in centerfield. Priced at $2.50 for adults last season, those seats will now sell for $4 each. Kids 14 and under may still purchase bleacher seats for just $1, giving a family of four the opportunity to attend a game for only $10.

The effect of these changes is a net decrease in the average ticket price from $11.48 in 1996 to $10.40 in 1997.

All Tiger season ticket packages are now on sale. For more information, contact the Tiger Season Ticket Sales Office at (313) 963-2050.

Researcher releases Rouge River fisheries report

The Rouge River a healthy sport fishery?

The idea may not be as far-fetched as you believe, according to Paul Seelbach, a University of Michigan fisheries researcher.

He presented his interim findings of a study conducted throughout the watershed to assess the current status and future potential of fish populations to the Rouge River Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council.

The study was funded by the Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project (Rouge Project) as part of its continuing efforts to improve water quality in the Rouge River.

The study focused on the various segments of the river system including the head waters and larger downstream

As the water quality in the Rouge River continues to improve, the diversity of fish species is expected to increase.

reaches. The Rouge River segments were compared with similar streams in southern Michigan to determine target fish communities and temperature ranges. Currently, most of the Rouge River segments rank below the reference streams with the exception of the head waters streams, which are in line with the projected targets. A key limiting factor of fish populations appears to be the poor water quality in many parts of the river. As the water quality in the Rouge River continues to improve, the diversity of fish species is expected to increase.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has been stocking brown trout in Johnson Creek for several years. Other species that may come back in a rejuvenated Rouge River include the Northern Pike, small mouth bass, rock bass and walleye. The study findings provide a more optimistic view of the Rouge River as a fishery than was previously believed. One surprising finding is that the water temperatures are relatively cool and stable in many of the reaches of the Rouge River. Careful maintenance of the vegetation along the river banks is necessary because of the shading it provides.

Baptist SWM,

Suburban stands out among competitors

By Karen Stronski
Automotive Writer

Boy, do I have a great automobile for you! It's sort of like sport-utility meets full size truck. How can that be you ask? Well, if you have not guessed by now, I'm talking about the 1997 GMC Suburban SLT. It's for the rugged individualist.

On the road and off you see two types of sport-utility owners: those who drive what's popular at the moment. And those who drive an automobile that is always in style. Suburban owners have discovered that in a vehicle category such as this one, filled with imposters and wannabees, the GMC stands out as an authentic choice.

Built on a dedicated four-wheel-drive platform the Suburban acts like an SUV/truck should, with unwavering ruggedness, durability, and the physical prowess to conquer most any terrain. Just hit the button and you are driving with the confidence of four-wheel-drive. Its just that simple.

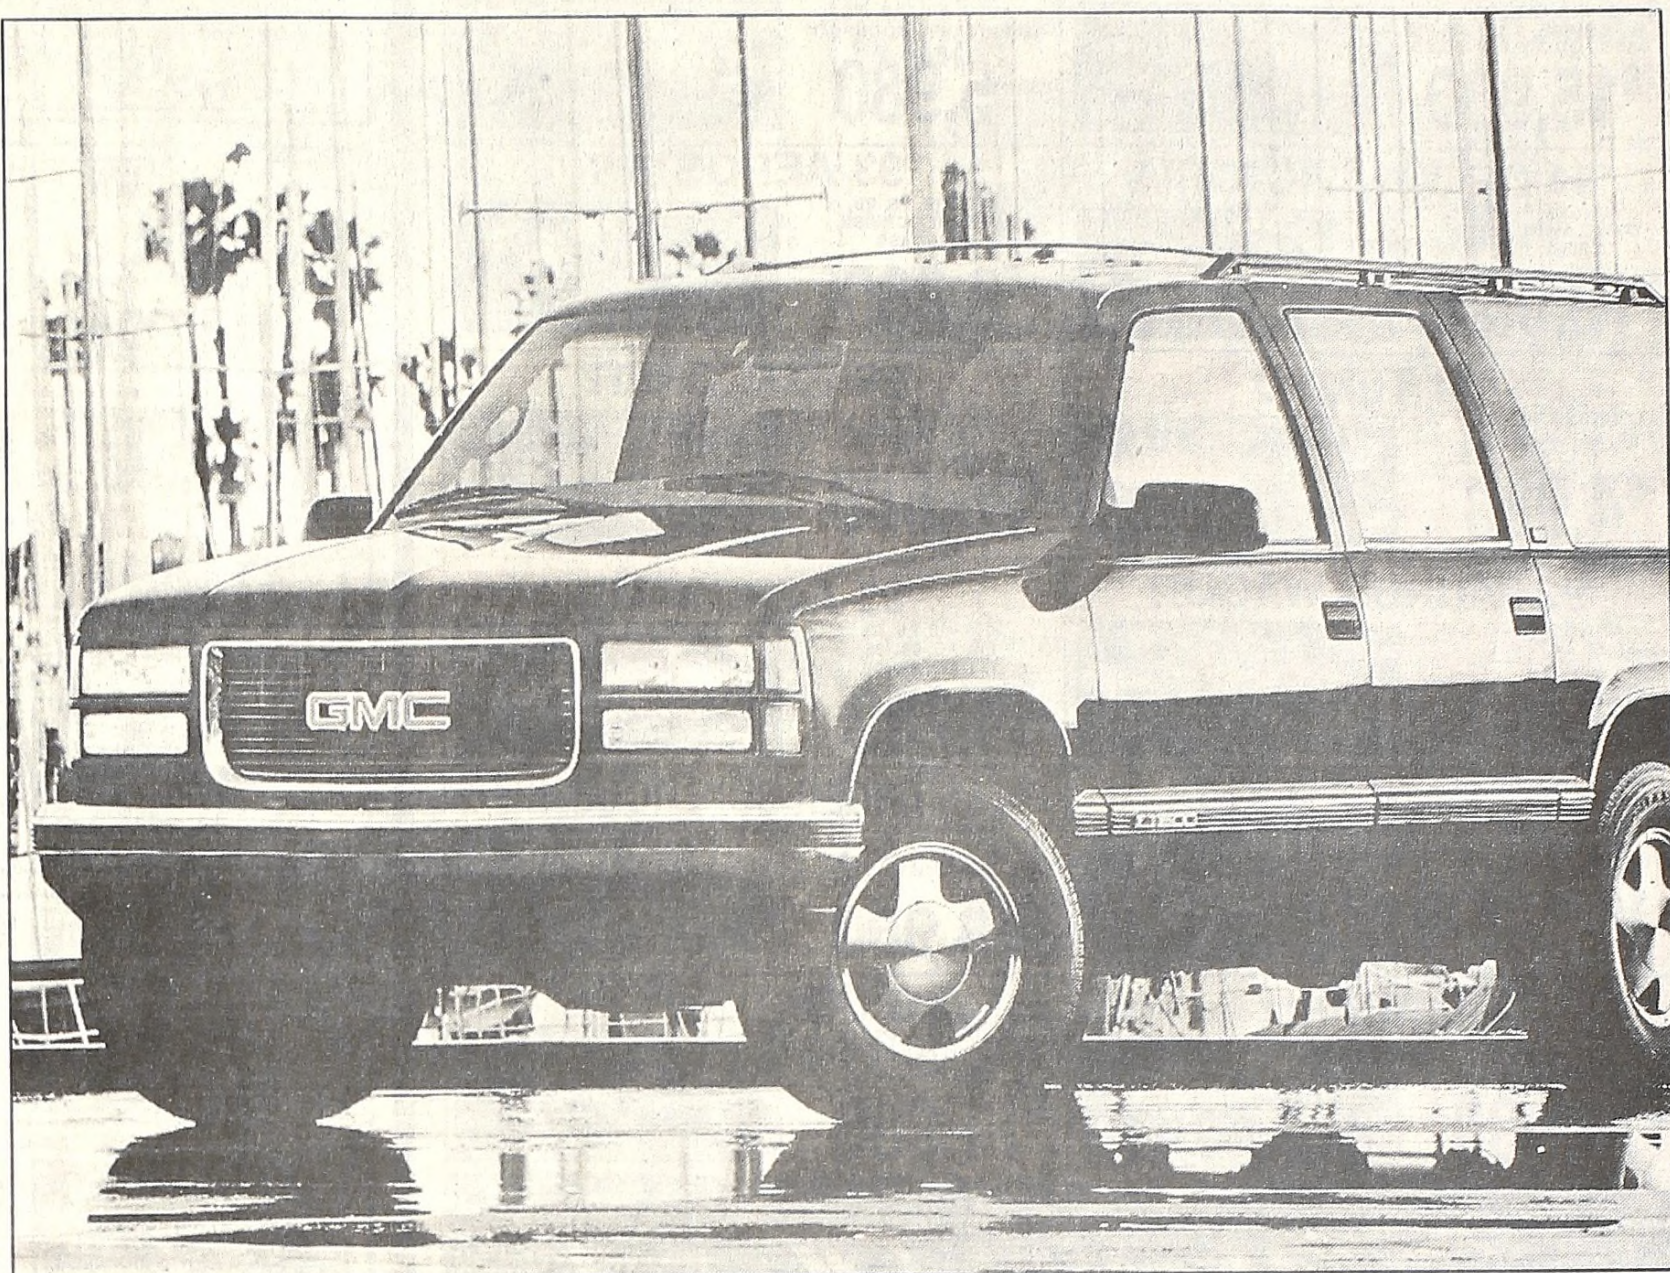

Unlike the ABS in some SUV's, Suburbans system works in every drive mode, helping to maintain steering control while braking on even the slickest surfaces. The control that I had once driving the vehicle was amazing, considering how large it was. I thought it would be very hard to maneuver. The ride was smooth as glass.

Some of the features that I found very useful were: the heat control vents in the rear passenger area could be controlled from the front as well as rear seats, large cargo/luggage capacity was great, plenty of cargo room for all those Christmas packages. There is also a really neat gadget called the D-pillar switch to lock and unlock all doors from the cargo area.

Standard equipment on this four-wheel drive Suburban SLT is steel belted radial tires, speed sensitive power steering, independent front suspension, front stabilizer bar, tow hook, four extra power sources for computers, radar detectors, etc... 100 amp alternator, driver and front passenger air bags, four wheel anti-lock brakes, side door beams, 42 gallon fuel tank and a hand full of other features at no additional cost.

For everything this SUV had, I found the price pretty easy to swallow. Base was $28,000 and as tested $38,000.

You must also consider that the one I drove was nicely loaded. It had a compact disc player, 6-way adjustable seats, sport appearance package, air conditioning front and rear with individual passenger controls, leather wrapped steering wheel, hi-back buckets and much more.

I would recommend this sport utility vehicle to any family large or small. It can do just about anything, and it has just about everything that you can imagine. Whether you've driven several SUV's/trucks, or this is your first time behind the wheel of one of these premium vehicles, I think you'll readily notice GMC's customer pleasing combination of power and comfort!
